A great birding route on Lake Pend Oreille. It hosts tens of thousands of waterfowl, huge rafts of coots, and diving birds in the fall and is a staging area for Red-necked Grebes and loons in Sept.-Oct. Hawkins Point and the adjacent Pack River flats are among the most reliable places to find a Eurasian Wigeon (among thousands of Americans) in the fall. This is an area to watch for Lewis's Woodpeckers, near and west of Hawkins Point. Bald Eagles breed on nearby islands.
